This game is so addictive. As a passionate Sims fan I am definitely impressed by this gamelove the range of playable careers, from Barista to the guru of well-being. Also be able to choose when Sims go to work, how long and what interactions they make is great. I love the variety of storiesyou can create with other sims and that you can easily monitor the progress of your history. I also really like to complete new missions, and receive rewards for it as a free bedroom collection etc. I really like the special creations izzys and how you can get unique pieces and certain increases with clothing. I would like Sims 4 to have more than these characteristics. would be great if we could get more fun, unique, free playable careers and the story added to the sims 4 for more interesting gameplay! I also appreciate that sims works on events themselves so you don't have to sit there for hours trying to complete the event. There are a lot of things I like about the game, but there are things that could be better. For example, if we could get more simcash easily, if children sims interact with things instead of walking around like zombies, and if we can get free animals, which would make the game even better. When I found out the sims were ocyted on the cell phone I was too happy. I couldn't wait to go to the game. I think the graphics are great and the choices of clothing and body design are great. the game is full of interesting things to enjoy, but there are some issues, I understand that the game is new and still needs some adjustment and updates. First, I find the incredibly stressful game. every time I perform a task are set more tasks that make the amount of tasks almost endless. I feel the game is incredibly complicated to handle. I find this stressful as in the free game sims you could just do one task at a time and I liked this. Secondly, I noticed that all you do on the game is press buttons. Have your sims always do the same things. you no longer have to look after your sims needs as on the other games. Finally, I feel it is incredibly difficultmoney on the game. And the only way to earn money is by pressing buttons for 30 minutes or waiting for 2 hours to complete a task. To improve this game me and other friends think that assims 4 you should be able to speed up time and try for a child as you would on the computer game. Also to improve you could make sure that when two sims friends are in a room, they can socialize and become friends together when both players are on the game. I understand that this is a free game and this will probably not be seen. I just thought I might express my opinion if it helps. Where I start. I think we should have more energy because in my opinion 30 is not enough and we should give at least 50 or 100. I think that because tasks/event just take the long way to complete without there help for example 7 hours to choose a menu for a wedding is just ridiculous long. Another point is that you should put the health bars in the game because you what is the point of even having half the tasks if the sims do not even need one of the furniture!! I also think it is useless to let the sims go only to the bathroom, etc. every few hours because this completely destroys the point of even buying the items. Another point is that some of the items and clothes are so above the price because 500 for a T-shirt just doesn't really make any sense to me. Even money is so difficult to do as you have to do events/visits or go to work that you both just take forever to do as you run out of energy. Also I would like if you bought back the night and the day because other wise what is the point of having even beds etc. Also the part of construction of the catalog takes at least half of my screen and also I don't understand why now we can't sell anything we have in storage to get some of our money back. Now I understand that the game is still in the early stages, but I think these things will make the gameplay even better.
